[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.] MAY 8, 1877. It is understood that a motion will to morrow be made before Judge Hughes, of the United States Court, sitting in Norfolk, for the appointment of a receiver for the Petersburg railroad. It will be remembered that on the 10th of January last the United States Circuit Court, in session in Alexandria, overruled the motion of the Savings Bank of Pottsville, Pa., a judgment-creditor of the Petersburg Railand Company, and plaintiff in a foreclosure suit against the company for the appointment of a receiver. The motion was opposed by the company, by the holders of second-mortgage bonds, and by this city, which is largely interested in the road. Since that time, it is claimed, the creditors of the company have been persistently tying up the revenue by the levying of attachments and summons of garnishment against the company, so that the company was prevented from paying the interest on its second-mortgage bonds, due on the 1st of this month; seriously interfering with the operations of the road and preventing expenditures necessary for the preservation the property of the company. It is furthermore said that the revenues of the company are believed to be ample to pay dividends on the preferred stock now held by the city of Petersburg, the interest on the first- and second-mortgage bonds, and still leave sufficient sums for the repair and reconstruction of the road-bed, and the purchase of the necessary rolling stock

Under these circumstances the first-mortgage bondholders have determined to renew the application for a receiver, and this time with much better prospects of success than in January last. There is now less opposition among the second-mortgage bondholders than there was then, over one half, and probably nearly two thirds of them. now favoring a receiver. It is also stated that the company itself is not averse to the appointment of a receiver.

selleving a receiver necessary, and with a view to securing the revenues of the company, as they claim, to the legitimate and beneticial uses of the corporation, the trustees of the first mortgage of the company-Mr. A. G. Mcliwaine, of this city, and Mr. Willeox Brown, of Baltimore-have given notice to the other parties in interest at they will move the court in Norfolk tomorrow for the appointment of a receiver. From all I am able to learn, there seems to be little doubt that the court will grant the motion and appoint a receiver.

Various names have been suggested in connection with the receivership-notably among them those of Captain R. G. Pegram, now president of the road; Colonel C. O. Sanford, and Mr. William N. Bolling. It is generally believed that if an appointment is made Captain R. G. Pegram will Judge Weisiger, at the late term of the Circuit Court of Prince George county, granted a divorce to John B. Roach from his wife, Henrietta Roach. The ground of complaint was that the wife had abandoned her husband for more than five years, which was deemed sufficient reason for divorce, particularly as the wife made no defence. The Common Council will hold a special meeting to-morrow afternoon to grant to the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Company the privilege of electing telegraph-

SUNDAY-SCHOOL AND MISSIONARY CONVEN-TION-INSTANTLY KILLED-CROPS, &C.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.] SOUTH BOSTON, May 7, 1877. The last session of the Dan River Baptist Sunday-School and Missionary Convention was held with the Arbor church, in this county, Judge W. R. Barksdale presiding. April 28th and 29th. The reports from the schools represented indicate great interest in this department of Christian labor.

On Sunday morning Rev. C. H. Ryland, D. D., preached to a large congregation from Revelations iii., 11. After the sermon a handsome collection was taken up for the State Mission Board. In the afternoon a Sunday-school mass-meeting was held, and interesting addresses were made by Rev. W. B. Williams and P. H. Carpenter, Esq., editor of the Halifax Record.

The session of the Convention was unusually interesting, and the hospitality of the people was unbounded. Felix Rogers (colored), aged eighteen years, in the employ of Mr. John A. Jannette, living a few miles from this place, was kicked by a mule on Wednesday last and instantly killed. It appears that he had been frequently warned not to go near the mule, a young animal, partially broken, but in vain. He persisted in riding the animal, and was only prevented from doing so by force. He then walked up and dehberately caught hold of the animal's tail, which re- of a rope; but at last his hands slipped of which in his drunken revellings he the left breast.
